

Enough Already SK

Omnibus survey results (December 2022)

In total, 401 Saskatchewan residents responded to seven questions about sexual harassment in the workplace.

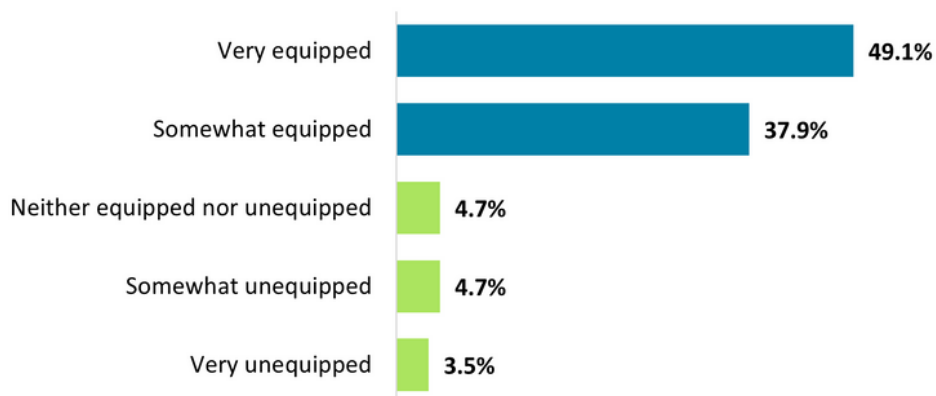

When asked what percentage of Saskatchewan employees they think experience sexual harassment in the workplace, the average response was...

34% of all Saskatchewan employees.

383 responses

A combined 87% of respondents felt very equipped or equipped to recognize workplace sexual harassment.

1

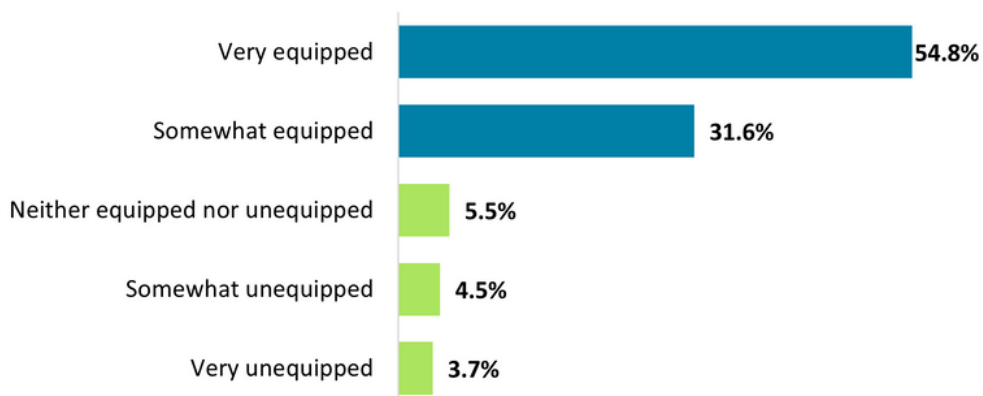

Recognizing Workplace Sexual Harassment

322 responses

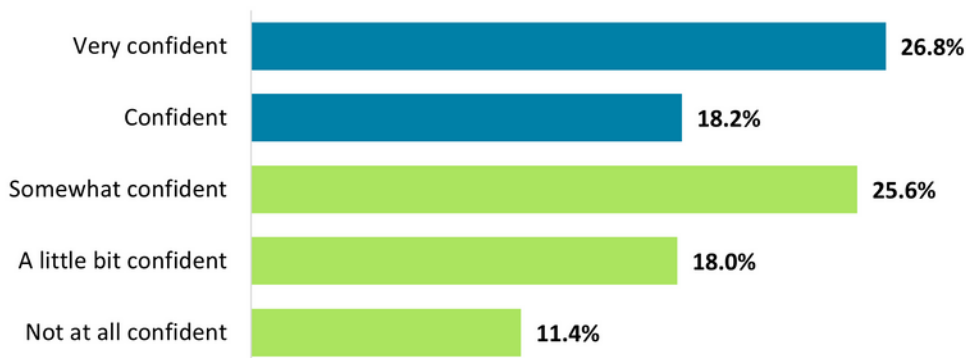

Reporting Workplace Sexual Harassment

329 responses

Approximately 86% of people feel very equipped or somewhat equipped to report sexual harassment in the workplace.

About 71% of respondents were at least somewhat confident in the legal steps to take if they (or someone they know) experienced workplace sexual harassment.

3

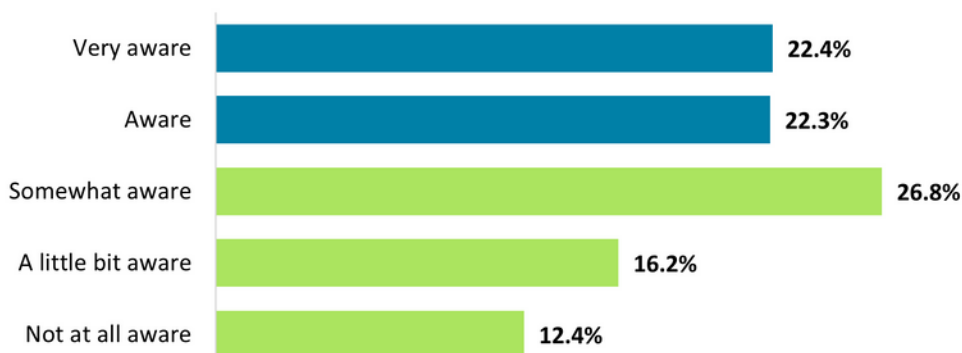

Confidence in Legal Steps

370 responses

Awareness of Resources

375 responses

About 71% of respondents were at least somewhat aware of resources and supports for when someone experiences workplace sexual harassment.

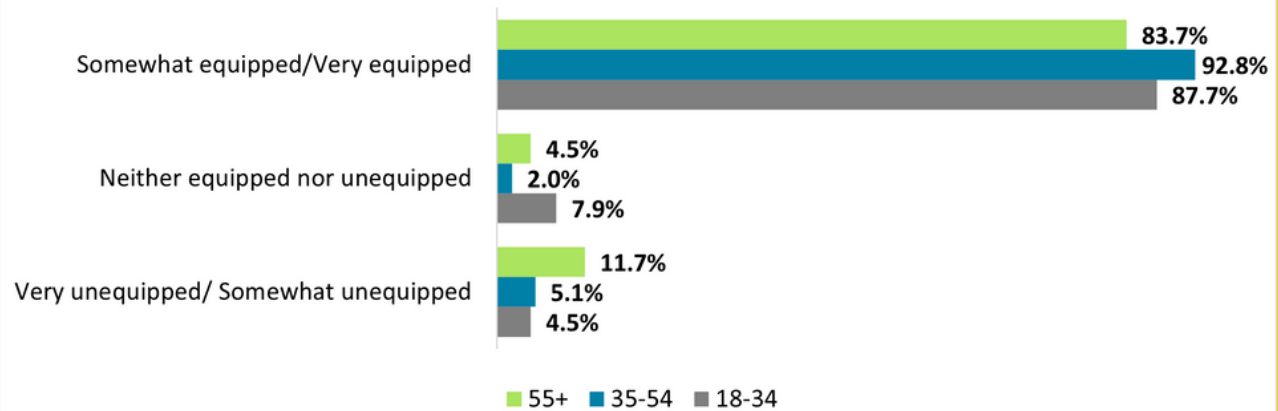

2022 Demographic Differences

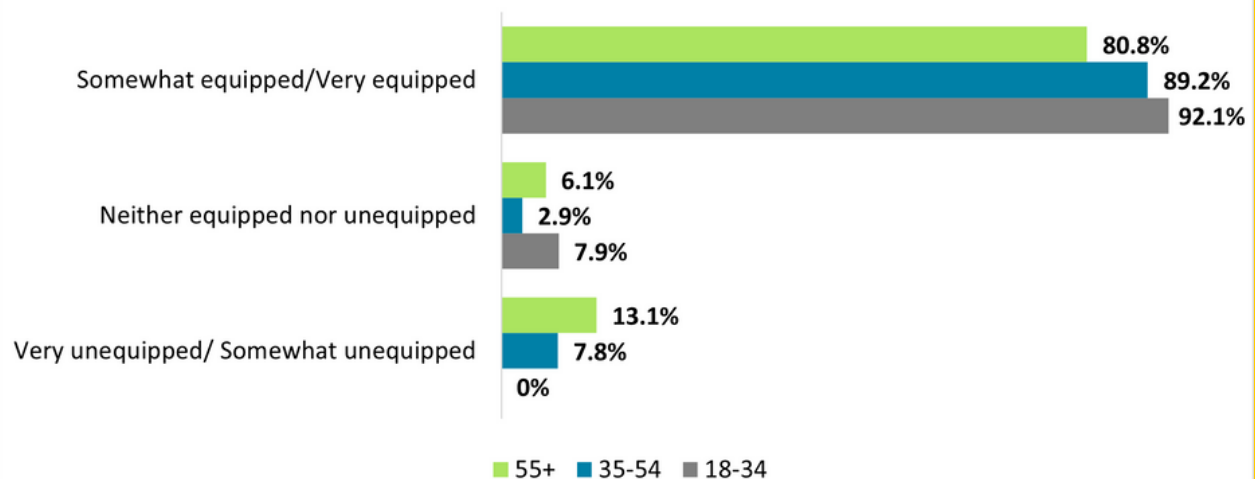

Age

Respondents aged 35-54 felt significantly more equipped to recognize workplace sexual harassment compared to those aged 55+.

Respondents aged 18-34 felt significantly more equipped to report workplace sexual harassment incidents than those aged 55+.

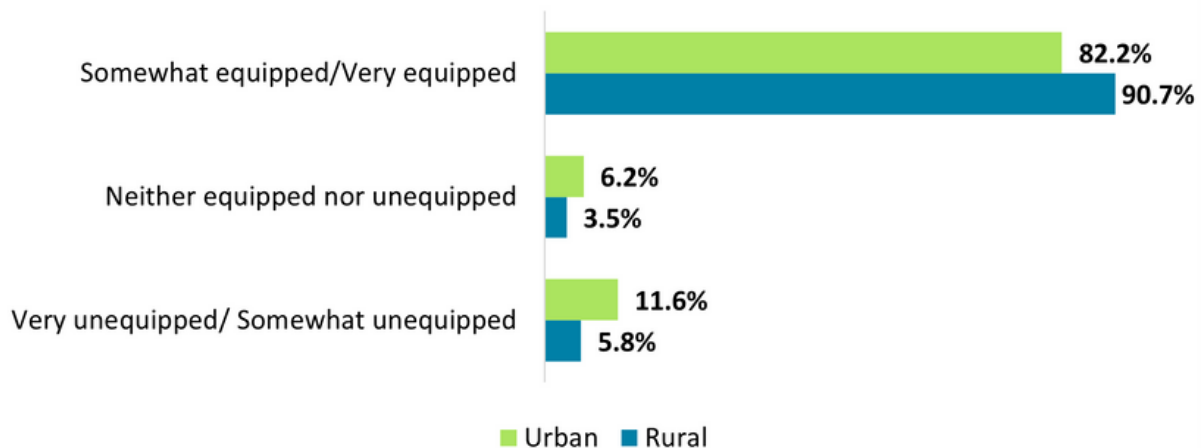

2022 Demographic Differences

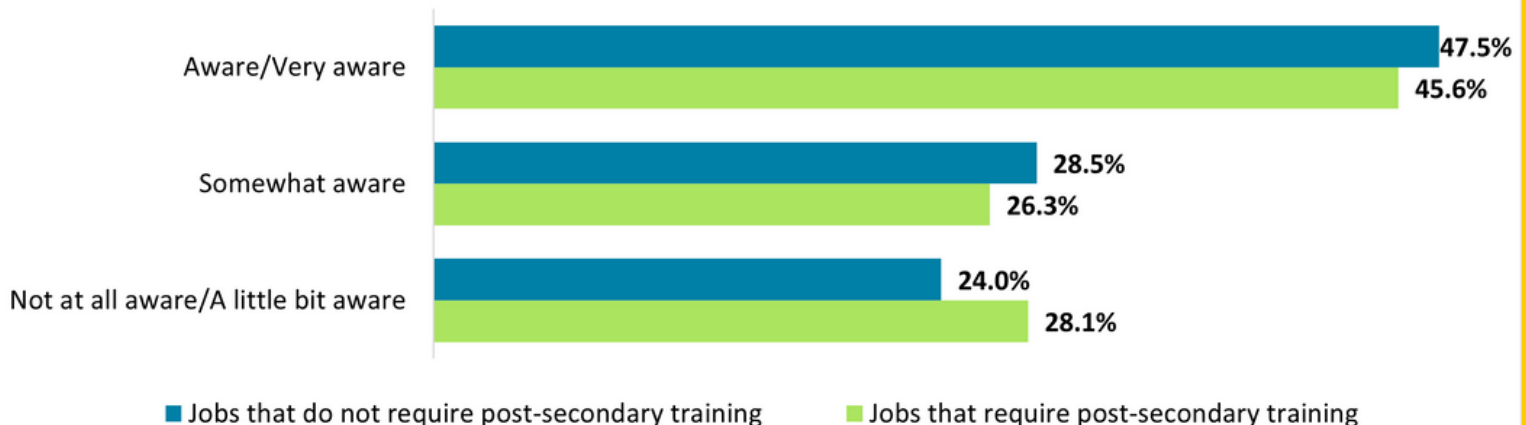

Region

Respondents in rural regions felt significantly more equipped to recognize workplace sexual harassment compared to those in urban regions.

Career Type

Respondents who had jobs that tend to require university or college education were significantly more aware of resources for workplace sexual harassment compared to those with jobs that did not require such training.

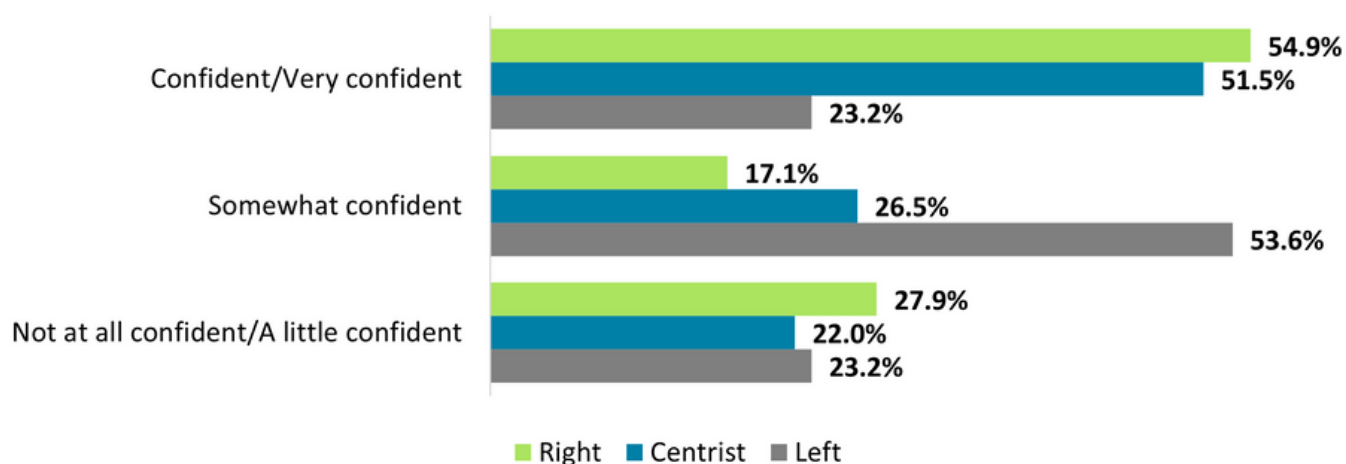

2022 Demographic Differences

Political Stance

Respondents with a centrist political stance were significantly more confident in the legal steps to take if someone experiences workplace sexual harassment compared those with a left political stance.

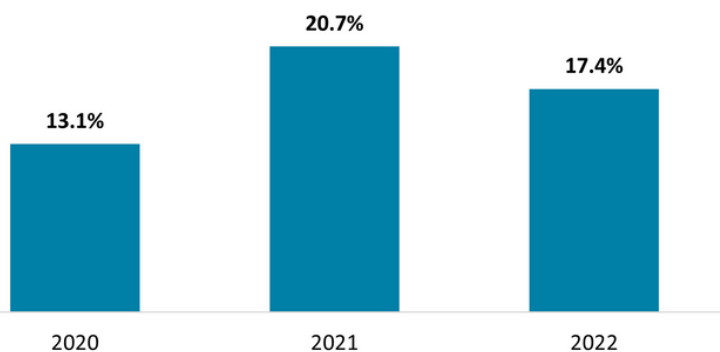

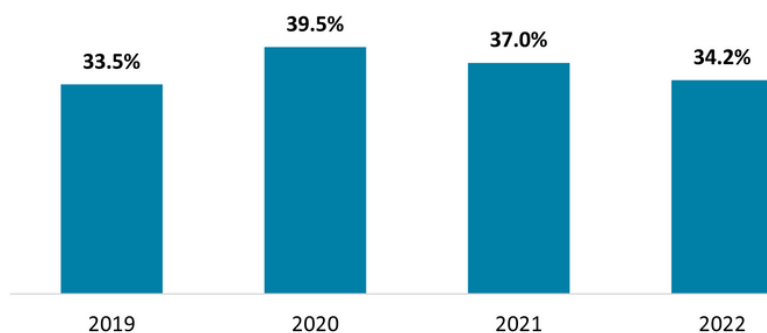

Yearly Comparisons

Compared to 2020, a higher proportion of respondents have heard about the Enough Already coalition in 2021 and 2022.

On average, respondents think that 36% of Saskatchewan employees have experienced sexual harassment in the workplace.

Since 2019, a higher proportion of respondents have felt: a) equipped or very equipped to recognize and report sexual harassment, b) at least somewhat confident in knowing legal steps to take, and c) at least somewhat aware of workplace sexual harassment

