Join us for the Enough Already bystander intervention training offered by Sexual Assault Services of Saskatchewan. This 1 hour training program will teach participants about sexual harassment in the workplace and how to intervene when witnessing harassment and microaggressions. The training goes over the three types of harassment, and their impacts, and finishes off with the 5 bystander intervention techniques that participants can use when witnessing harassment. Within the training, we also include information and scenarios tailored to the audience, including how and who participants can reach out if they witness or experience sexual harassment.
