

SASKATCHEWAN
ACCESS TO JUSTICE
WORKING GROUP

BULLETIN FOR JANUARY 2018

Justice innovation lessons of 2017: <http://bit.ly/2mVGWVQ>.

Congratulations to Beau Atkins of Edge Family Law in Saskatoon on winning the Victor P Dietz, QC memorial Pro Bono Service Award: <http://bit.ly/2F4AW3Z>.

Ontario paralegals a step closer to offering family law services: <http://bit.ly/2DxLj35>.

Florida Supreme Court introduces mobile app to help with family law: <http://fla.st/2Dslwoy>.

U of S law students invited to email cat.bonner@usask.ca to enter College of Law and CREATE Justice Research Poster Competition, an opportunity to increase access to legal information.

B.C.'s trailblazing digital Civil Resolution Tribunal delivering: <http://bit.ly/2G7KdcW>.

Interview of Professor Katie Sykes by Hon. Thomas Cromwell on law school course, Designing Legal Expert Systems, aimed at improving access to justice: <http://bit.ly/2DwBdj5>.

Law Society of Saskatchewan's Legal Sourcery, home of access to justice and other law news, has won Clawbie Best Canadian Law Library Blog Award: <http://bit.ly/2DDbYLY>.

Association of American Law Schools survey finds law class of 2017 contributed more than $81 million worth of pro bono legal services: <http://bit.ly/2Ds68xy>.

Bonkalo and House of Commons Reports recommend expanding role of law school clinics to improve access to justice in Canada: <http://bit.ly/2Dzcewp>.

LawDroid to build first voice-activated US Legal Aid Bot, with access to justice capabilities: <http://bit.ly/2n0b41D>.

Congratulations to Saskatchewan Access to Justice Working Group members Tim Brown and Evatt Merchant, honoured with 2017 Queen's Counsel designations: <http://bit.ly/2rvtX1T>.

PASS IT ON! SUBMIT YOUR BITE-SIZED ACCESS TO JUSTICE NEWS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE BULLETIN TO a2jworkinggroup@usask.ca AND ENCOURAGE OTHERS TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE BULLETIN AT <http://bit.ly/29eyYPr>.

UNIVERSITY OF SASKATCHEWAN
College of Law
LAW.USASK.CA